A RELIC

Here is a copy of the resolutions adopted by the Third Term and Southern Outrage Convention held on the 15th of October—a short time previous to the November elections—at Chattanooga We snatch it as a relic from that oblivion into which all good Republicans hope everything connected with the Convention may speedily pass

WHEREAS, We recognize the equality of all men before the law, and hold that it is the duty of the Government in its dealings with the people to mete out equal and exact justice to all, of whatever race, color, or persuasion religious or political, and,

WHEREAS, The Federal Congress has the undoubted power to enforce, by suitable legislation said rights therefore be it

Resolved That we reaffirm and indorse the platform of the National Republican Convention adopted at Philadelphia in 1872, in declaring that the equal civil and political rights of all citizens should be enforced by appropriate State and Federal legislation

Second That we fully indorse the action of the national administration in taking active measures to suppress outrages violence, and intimidation which exist in many of the Southern States and in maintaining law and order, and the rights of all classes, and especially its action in suppressing the recent insurrection in and upholding the existing government of Louisiana, inasmuch as any other course of public policy would have been destructive of Republican institutions and the adoption of a precedent dangerous to the rights of self government which can only be executed under the Constitution and laws made in pursuance thereof

Third That in the name of humanity we denounce in the strongest terms the perpetrators of the numerous murders, assassinations, and other outrages in portions of the reconstructed States upon citizens whose only offense was a firm attachment to and support of the Republican parties and the principles of equality and civil law, and we arraign the Democratic party of the South who have fostered the existence of the Kuklux White League and other rebellious organizations by whom these outrages have in the main been committed before the bar of the nation as directly responsible for these murders and for the fact that, as a general thing the perpetrators have thus far gone unwhipped of justice And we fully indorse the action of the Administration in its endeavor to prosecute these offenders in the Federal courts whenever and wherever said offenses are therein cognizable

Fourth That it is the deliberate opinion of this convention that whenever a State government is overthrown by revolutionary measures and efforts made to inaugurate another that prompt and efficient action should be had by Congress to give to every State the Republican form of government guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States

Fifth That we earnestly appeal to all citizens of the United States whatever their political associations may be who revere the sacred majesty of the law and the dignity of the nation to aid us in an honest effort to restore tranquillity of our people to invite immigration to our States and to develop the material interests of the whole country

Sixth That we unqualifiedly denounce the recent attempt in some of the Southern States to organize political parties on what is known as the race issue, that we are opposed to all political organizations having for their object the arraying of one class of our citizens against another and that we call upon all good citizens throughout the South to aid us in our efforts to cultivate and perpetuate friendly relations between the races

Seventh That the opening of our great rivers and water courses, especially the mouth of the Mississippi and the navigable streams of the South and the maintenance of the naval stations on the Southern coast being of the utmost importance to the welfare of our country we ask that such appropriations may be made from time to time by the General Government as will accomplish this result

Eighth That a general diffusion of knowledge is the best safeguard of liberty and surest guarantee of the perpetuity of free government that we hereby earnestly request and urge Congress to appropriate the public lands or the proceeds of the sale thereof to the cause of education and that the same be applied to the maintenance and support of the public schools in the several States in the ratio of illiteracy

Ninth That we earnestly urge upon the Republican party in the South and the Administration at Washington the imperative necessity of selecting none but honest faithful and capable men for office and we recommend the national administration to remove all such as do not possess these qualifications

A SCATHING ATTACK

AN ADMINISTRATION ORGAN ON SOME REPUBLICAN LEADERS—MR. DAWES, GEN GARFIELD AND THEIR REFORMS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE PRESENT CONDITION OF "THE PARTY"

WASHINGTON October 31—The National Republican this morning has a remarkable editorial on next Tuesday's elections It says we have faith and hope that when the great November battle between the political parties shall close that evening when we begin to count the conquerors and conquered the victory will still be found perched upon the eagles of that party which, notwithstanding all its blunders and faults has been for fourteen years the party of the people the party of patriotism of good government of national advancement and national union, but at the same time in the fourteenth year of its power, it cannot be denied that the party enters into the contest under burdens which it has not known in the past that its chances for success are less than they have been in any one of its previous years that if we win it will be owing more to good luck than good management.

It goes on to question why there is so much distrust and why there could be any doubt of success and answers its questions as follows

Only one answer can be given the party itself and it alone is responsible for the position in which it is now placed there are fearful odds that stare us in the face We may win and probably we shall, but the mass of the party should not have been placed where it is and we charge that it has been put there by so-called leaders—leaders without any element of leadership who in their legislation have dragged the party down from its commanding position held even two years ago till to day it is

AT THE MERCY OF THE ENEMY

We have still a majority of the people of the country, but that majority has been so demoralized by its leaders in Congress that it is unconscious of its own strength One of its Generals in the House is almost repudiated by men who were proud to elect and re elect him by majorities all the way from 9 000 to 13 000 votes, we mean the Chairman of the Appropriation Committee of the House of Representatives General Joseph A Garfield Mr Dawes is another leader Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee what vote did either of them do at the last session of Congress to strengthen the party before the country? They had command of the House, they had control of the legislation they had the destinies of the party in their hand but they threw them away; they gave us a paltry policy they to use a vulgar term "nosed around the Departments to see where a penny could here and there be saved they yielded the floor to every Democrat who held a resolution in his hand to investigate a Department of the Government and were the first to second the motion they

LED THE PARTY TO ITS OWN DEFEAT

A speech in defence of the party came from neither of them We charge upon Mr Dawes and Mr Garfield the responsibility for the position in which the party is placed to-day and in doing so we know that we represent the feeling of every thoroughbred Republican in the land of every thorough Republican in Congress Cutting one hundred dollars from the appropriation of this Bureau ten dollars from that is not statesmanship Whining as Mr Dawes did years ago for the leadership Dawes and Garfield and Foster have brought the party to the pass it is in to day; Still holding a majority of the country, it is led to slaughter by commanders who ought to be only corporals by statesmen who do not possess the first requisite of statesmanship. Under such management no party could live, and all history cannot show in a popular government a single case of imbecility, cowardice and treachery that we have not been guilty of the last three years A Republican Congress investigating alleged frauds in the New York Custom House upon the motion of men like R E Fenton, who was at the time the declared enemy of the party in power the War Department investigated at the command of Schurz who was nursed by the party until he became strong enough to sling it aside the Navy Department investigated at the instigation of an outlaw who is a fugitive from justice in three States of the Union the Postoffice Department searched and ransacked to gratify the mercenary curiosity of

A DEMAGOGUE FROM CALIFORNIA

This is the record of the statesmanship and leadership of the party in Congress since 1872 The country flooded with defamation and slander, suspicion cast upon every chief of the party, what wonder that the confidence of the people is shaken—that the issue of the battle next Tuesday with the Republican party still in the majority is a matter of doubt and uncertainty? No party could support the burden even if it had the majority the Republican party has to-day We stagger into the campaign under a load of stupidity for which our party leaders in Congress and out are responsible We have had treason and disloyalty to the party in all the Departments of the Government Whatever information was calculated to help or to hurt the party since it has existed has been

AT THE SERVICE OF THE PARTY'S ENEMIES

Instead of its friends

The article then goes on to assert that instead of attending to business the leaders last year were busy grasping with such mighty troubles as would fill the country newspapers reforming as they called it, the civil service and cutting off in this or that Department a score or more of paltry clerkships It is hard to be patient when we think of all the party treason cowardice stupidity, ignorance of the plainest needs of the country and neglect of the most palpable duties What wonder that there is distress and dissatisfaction on every side that the Republican majority of nearly 100 in the elective branch of the Government seems likely to be blotted out in the contest of Tuesday next? We believe that we shall win but victory if it comes will come in spite of the men who have been leading the party to danger and disaster

REPEAL OF THE NEW YORK DOG ORDINANCE—Captain Marriott said "We have received 8 000 killed 7,000 and released on receipt of the legal indemnity 1 000 dogs John Hurlick a dog catcher alone has delivered 2,500 of the whole number He has received at [illegible] nine bites on each of his hands, and others of his class have suffered almost equally The repeal of the ordinance authorizing me to kill dogs is, as I have been authoritatively informed owing to the frequently repeated allegation that dog-catchers captured costly animals and disposed of them before they came here'—N Y Sun

A team belonging to George Landing indulged in a lively runaway at McMinnville last week The runaway team started from in front of the college Here one of the horses became unruly and reared and plunged about until he got out of his place and one of his traces became unhitched when the driver went to the heads of his team and took them by the bits The horses ran and Mr Landing held to them until he was knocked down and trampled upon by the now furious steeds and run over by the wagon He was picked up more dead than alive and taken to the physician's office where his wounds were dressed and such treatment rendered as he needed One of his ears was almost severed from his head and he was bruised from head to foot but fortunately no bones were broken and after getting his ear sewed on, he went home and seems to be getting along nicely

A SAW FISH —The Galveston News thus describes a fish caught at that place a few days ago He was the kind known as of saw fish and was 18 feet in length. He carried his saw at the end of his nose it is 4 feet long and set with teeth an inch and a half in length and sharp as needles He came ashore at the request of a party of fishermen of whom Mr James Hussey is chief who happened to be dragging their nets on the Gulf shore between the Half Way House and Gulf Veranda These monsters which abound in the waters of the Gulf only come close in shore when the water is smooth otherwise they would be dangerous neighbors They swim with the rapidity of sharks and would cut a man's leg off or half way through his body at a single dash

FUTURE POLITICS OF THE TRIBUNE —Chicago October 30 —Joseph Medill one of the founders and a large stockholder in the Chicago Tribune has bought of Horace White, for several years past chief editor and Alfred Cowles business manager, a controlling interest in the paper and will on the 9th of November next assume full editorial control placing the paper back to the position it occupied during his former management as an independent Republican journal White retains as an investment a minor portion of his stock but severs connection otherwise with the paper and will go to Europe to recuperate Cowles retains a considerable quantity of stock, and will continue as business manager

SALARIES OF POSTMASTERS —Chicago, October 30 —A Washington special says the attention of the Postmaster General has been called to the fact that the salaries of Postmasters in the large towns and cities are entirely out of proportion to the work performed—a comparative statement of salaries at many prominent points being proposed for the purpose of exhibiting the facts in the case, and it is the intention of the Postmaster General to make such recommendation with regard to salaries as the actual duties performed in each case seem to call for

KULLMAN'S SENTENCE

BERLIN October 30 —The trial of Kullmann was concluded this afternoon The case has attracted more than usual interest and the Court room was densely crowded The audience was composed of parties from all over Germany many of them being members of Ultramontane societies who heard the proceedings with keen interest No demonstrations were made in the Court room the Ultramontanists being overawed by the large force of police present to preserve order A company of militia was also in Wurzburg to act in the event of an attempt at rescuing the prisoner

Kullman declined the aid of the counsel offered by the Government and defended himself In his address to the Court he related his history and the causes that had impelled him to seek the life of Bismarck He stated that his apprenticeship in early life had corrupted him and led him into the paths of vice He had borne the taunts of Protestant apprentices associated with him until he could bear them no longer and he had then sought for the means of revenge upon the Protestants and upon the imprisonment of the Archbishop of Posen for his opposition to the German ecclesiastical laws the assassination of some prominent Protestant suggested itself and he finally fixed upon Bismarck as his victim

The stillness of death prevailed during the prisoner's speech The Court, in addressing the prisoner, previous to passing sentence referred to the enormity of his crime which but for the interposition of Divine Providence might have brought him to the scaffold Kullman was then sentenced to fourteen years imprisonment at the expiration of which he is to be for ten years deprived of all civil rights and to be under the strict surveillance of the police The prisoner was very calm and collected while standing to receive his sentence He refused to appeal from the verdict of the Court

THAT NAUGHTY MAN TILDEN —A Georgia editor hopes that Tilden will be elected in New York though he never fancied him much He is a thin attenuated old gentleman wears a stock and looks like a dancing master of the olden days reminding us of the old man who can nimbly caper in a lady's chamber to the lascivious pleasings of a lute. Party obligations must rest heavily on an editor who can thus give his support to a thin old man who having no other article of wearing apparel worth mentioning than a stock can behave himself in this style in a lady's chamber Tilden shall clothe his thin attenuateness and behave himself else he shall not have our vote —[illegible] Times

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Coroner Rice is holding an inquest this morning, in the case of the young negro, Berry, who murdered his father last week. The testimony shows that he had threatened for months before to murder his father, and that he told the landlady on the night of the murder that his father must die that night. The inquest is not yet concluded. The prisoner has made no further attempts to kill himself.

Greenbacks unchanged.

The weather is clear and pleasant, and the prospect is that there will be fair weather for the great trotting race to-morrow at Bay District race track. In pool selling for the great trotting race to-morrow, proportions are about as follows: Occident, $50; Fullerton, $40, and Chicago, $5 to $10. If the weather holds pleasant the track will be in fine order.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Joseph McArdle, second mate of the ship Undaunted, was to-day sentenced to pay a fine of $600, and imprisonment in the State Prison for two years, for cruelly beating a seaman on board that ship.

Sixteen Chinese gamblers were arrested to-day.

A dispatch from Hongkong states that efforts to raise the Alaska have proved unsuccessful, and a new contract has been let for $35,000.

The Niagara Mining Co. No. 1 was incorporated to-day, to carry on business in Gold Hill, Nevada. The directors are James A. Pritchard, W. T. O'Neil, W. L. Brackett, J. J. Holmes and W. E. Hale. Capital stock, $6,000,000, divided into 60,000 shares.

The Newark Mining Co. has levied an assessment of fifty cents per share. Silver Cord and South Chariot also declared assessments to the same amount.

The steamer Colima, from Panama, arrived this afternoon with 485 passengers.

Interior California.

CHICO, Nov. 6.—This morning at 7 o'clock a man named James Fisher fell dead while on the way to the cars. He was starting for San Francisco. He lived at St. John's, Colusa county, but had been staying at Chico for a few days. He died of heart disease.

DAVISVILLE, Nov. 6.—E. L. Brown, of Davisville, committed suicide this afternoon by taking poison. Family trouble supposed to be the cause for it.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 6.—The Controller issued the following warrants to-day for the redemption of the civil bonds of 1857: D. O. Mills & Co., $7,163 31; S. J. Nathan, $1,023 33.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—Showers of rain fell during last night, and the ground was well soaked this morning from the dense fall of water.

The city election campaign has opened warm. Voting day is yet nearly a month off, and the prospects are fair for a hot fight.

A suit was commenced yesterday by J. Tobias to recover $10,000 damages from Austin & Hewitt, for injuries which he recently received by being run over by one of the hacks belonging to that firm.

In the indictment of John McDonald, for the murder of his wife, prisoner was brought into Court this morning to plead. He pleaded previous acquittal of the offense by judgment of the Court rendered in the first indictment, and further entered a plea of not guilty. The case was set for trial Dec. 1st.

It is reported by a party just in from Panamint, that Jones & Stewart have concluded the purchase of the Jacobs Wonder Mine from R. C. Jacobs for the handsome figure of $155,000. This will leave all the mines of importance in the district in the hands of these capitalists.

SAN JOSE, Nov. 6.—This evening about 6 o'clock fire broke out on the corner of Market and St. John streets. A barn owned by Mr. Wentz, butcher, was consumed. Surrounding buildings were saved but much damaged. It was a large blaze but slight loss.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

Suicide at Eugene.

EUGENE, Nov. 6.—Sol. Kuhn, resident of this place, and dealer in fancy goods and tobacco, committed suicide last night by cutting his throat. He had been complaining of feeling unwell and evidently committed the deed while out of his mind.

A RELIC.

Here is a copy of the resolutions adopted by the Third Term and Southern Outrage Convention held on the 15th of October—a short time previous to the November elections—at Chattanooga. We snatch it as a relic, from that oblivion into which all good Republicans hope everything connected with the Convention may speedily pass:

WHEREAS, We recognize the equality of all men before the law, and hold that it is the duty of the Government in its dealings with the people to mete out equal and exact justice to all, of whatever race, color, or persuasion, religious or political, and

WHEREAS, The Federal Congress has the undoubted power to enforce, by suitable legislation, said rights; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we reaffirm and indorse the platform of the National Republican Convention adopted at Philadelphia in 1872, in declaring that the equal civil and political rights of all citizens should be enforced by appropriate State and Federal legislation.

Second. That we fully indorse the action of the national administration in taking active measures to suppress outrages, violence, and intimidation, which exist in many of the Southern States, and in maintaining law and order, and the rights of all classes, and especially its action in suppressing the recent insurrection in and upholding the existing government of Louisiana, inasmuch as any other course of public policy would have been destructive of Republican institutions, and the adoption of a precedent dangerous to the rights of self-government, which can only be executed under the Constitution and laws made in pursuance thereof.

Third. That, in the name of humanity, we denounce in the strongest terms the perpetrators of the numerous murders, assassinations, and other outrages in portions of the reconstructed States, upon citizens whose only offense was a firm attachment to and support of the Republican parties and the principles of equality and civil law; and we arraign the Democratic party of the South, who have fostered the existence of the Kuklux, White League, and other rebellious organizations, by whom these outrages have, in the main, been committed, before the bar of the nation, as directly responsible for these murders, and for the fact that, as a general thing, the perpetrators have thus far gone unwhipped of justice. And we fully indorse the action of the Administration in its endeavor to prosecute these offenders in the Federal courts whenever and wherever said offenses are therein cognizable.

Fourth. That it is the deliberate opinion of this convention that whenever a State government is overthrown by revolutionary measures, and efforts made to inaugurate another, that prompt and efficient action should be had by Congress to give to every State the Republican form of government guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States.

Fifth. That we earnestly appeal to all citizens of the United States, whatever their political associations may be, who revere the sacred majesty of the law and the dignity of the nation, to aid us in an honest effort to restore tranquillity of our people, to invite immigration to our States, and to develop the material interests of the whole country.

Sixth. That we unqualifiedly denounce the recent attempt in some of the Southern States to organize political parties on what is known as the "race issue;" that we are opposed to all political organizations having for their object the arraying of one class of our citizens against another, and that we call upon all good citizens throughout the South to aid us in our efforts to cultivate and perpetuate friendly relations between the races.

Seventh. That the opening of our great rivers and water courses, especially the mouth of the Mississippi and the navigable streams of the South, and the maintenance of the naval stations on the Southern coast being of the utmost importance to the welfare of our country, we ask that such appropriations may be made from time to time by the General Government as will accomplish this result.

Eighth. That as a general diffusion of knowledge is the best safeguard of liberty, and surest guarantee of the perpetuity of free government, that we hereby earnestly request and urge Congress to appropriate the public lands, or the proceeds of the sale thereof, to the cause of education, and that the same be applied to the maintenance and support of the public schools in the several States in the ratio of illiteracy.

Ninth. That we earnestly urge upon the Republican party in the South, and the Administration at Washington, the imperative necessity of selecting none but honest, faithful, and capable men for office, and we recommend the national administration to remove all such as do not possess these qualifications.

A SCATHING ATTACK.

AN ADMINISTRATION ORGAN ON SOME REPUBLICAN LEADERS—MR. DAWES, GEN. GARFIELD AND THEIR REFORMS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE PRESENT CONDITION OF "THE PARTY."

WASHINGTON, October 31.—The National Republican this morning has a remarkable editorial on next Tuesday's elections. It says, "we have faith and hope that when the great November battle between the political parties shall close, that evening when we begin to count the conquerors and conquered, the victory will still be found perched upon the eagles of that party which, notwithstanding all its blunders and faults, has been for fourteen years the party of the people; the party of patriotism, of good government, of national advancement and national union; but, at the same time, in the fourteenth year of its power, it cannot be denied that the party enters into the contest under burdens which it has not known in the past; that its chances for success are less than they have been in any one of its previous years; that if we win it will be owing more to good luck than good management."

It goes on to question why there is so much distrust and why there could be any doubt of success, and answers its questions as follows: "Only one answer can be given: the party itself, and it alone, is responsible for the position in which it is now placed; there are fearful odds that stare us in the face. We may win, and probably we shall, but the mass of the party should not have been placed where it is, and we charge that it has been put there by so-called leaders—leaders without any element of leadership, who in their legislation have dragged the party down from its commanding position, held even two years ago, till to-day it is

AT THE MERCY OF THE ENEMY.

We have still a majority of the people of the country, but that majority has been so demoralized by its leaders in Congress that it is unconscious of its own strength. One of its Generals in the House is almost repudiated by men who were proud to elect and re-elect him by majorities all the way from 9,000 to 13,000 votes; we mean the Chairman of the Appropriation Committee of the House of Representatives, General Joseph A. Garfield. Mr. Dawes is another leader, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee; what vote did either of them do at the last session of Congress to strengthen the party before the country? They had command of the House, they had control of the legislation, they had the destinies of the party in their hand, but they threw them away; they gave us a paltry policy; they, to use a vulgar term "nosed around" the Departments to see where a penny could here and there be saved; they yielded the floor to every Democrat who held a resolution in his hand to investigate a Department of the Government, and were the first to second the motion; they

LED THE PARTY TO ITS OWN DEFEAT.

A speech in defence of the party came from neither of them. We charge upon Mr. Dawes and Mr. Garfield the responsibility for the position in which the party is placed to-day, and in doing so we know that we represent the feeling of every thoroughbred Republican in the land, of every thorough Republican in Congress. Cutting one hundred dollars from the appropriation of this Bureau, ten dollars from that is not statesmanship. Whining, as Mr. Dawes did years ago for the leadership, Dawes and Garfield and Foster have brought the party to the pass it is in to-day. Still holding a majority of the country, it is led to slaughter by commanders who ought to be only corporals, by statesmen who do not possess the first requisite of statesmanship. Under such management no party could live, and all history cannot show in a popular government a single case of imbecility, cowardice and treachery that we have not been guilty of the last three years. A Republican Congress investigating alleged frauds in the New York Custom House upon the motion of men like R. E. Fenton, who was at the time the declared enemy of the party in power; the War Department investigated at the command of Schurz, who was nursed by the party until he became strong enough to sling it aside; the Navy Department investigated at the instigation of an outlaw who is a fugitive from justice in three States of the Union; the Postoffice Department searched and ransacked to gratify the mercenary curiosity of

A DEMAGOGUE FROM CALIFORNIA.

This is the record of the statesmanship and leadership of the party in Congress since 1872. The country flooded with defamation and slander, suspicion cast upon every chief of the party, what wonder that the confidence of the people is shaken—that the issue of the battle next Tuesday, with the Republican party still in the majority, is a matter of doubt and uncertainty? No party could support the burden even if it had the majority the Republican party has to-day. We stagger into the campaign under a load of stupidity for which our party leaders in Congress and out are responsible. We have had treason and disloyalty to the party in all the Departments of the Government. Whatever information was calculated to help or to hurt the party since it has existed has been

Instead of its friends."

The article then goes on to assert that "instead of attending to business the leaders last year were busy grasping with such mighty troubles as would fill the country newspapers, reforming, as they called it, the civil service, and cutting off in this or that Department a score or more of paltry clerkships. It is hard to be patient when we think of all the party treason, cowardice, stupidity, ignorance of the plainest needs of the country, and neglect of the most palpable duties. What wonder that there is distress and dissatisfaction on every side, that the Republican majority of nearly 100 in the elective branch of the Government seems likely to be blotted out in the contest of Tuesday next? We believe that we shall win, but victory, if it comes will come in spite of the men who have been leading the party to danger and disaster"

REPEAL OF THE NEW YORK DOG ORDINANCE.—Captain Marriott said: "We have received 8,000, killed 7,000, and released on receipt of the legal indemnity, 1,000 dogs. John Hurlick, a dog-catcher, alone, has delivered 2,500 of the whole number. He has received at least nine bites on each of his hands, and others of his class have suffered almost equally. The repeal of the ordinance authorizing me to kill dogs is, as I have been authoritatively informed, owing to the frequently repeated allegation that dog-catchers captured costly animals and disposed of them before they came here."—N. Y. Sun.

OREGON.

The State Library received 16 new volumes last month.

Albany has a skating rink. An opening for another surgeon.

Some sickness in Washington county, typhoid and other fevers.

Dr. Bailey, of Hillsboro, grows potatoes weighing five pounds each.

The steam flouring mill at Hillsboro will commence to run again in a few days.

There were 28 deeds and mortgages filed for record in Washington county in October.

The new grist mill at Corvallis is rapidly approaching completion. The machinery is in motion.

Mr. Chalmers, of Washington county, recently purchased the Arthur place at a cost of $4,750.

The cars smashed an unfortunate bovine near Burkhart's in Linn county, as they came down last Monday.

Albany claims to be growing faster than any other town in the State. There's room there, and the citizens have pluck.

The Albany Register says: "Wheat commands 80 cents in this market. Sales few and far between at this figure."

The Record says the river at Salem on last Wednesday night had risen two feet and was coming up at the rate of half an inch per hour.

A Yamhill paper says: "Just as deep as the dust was, so deep the mud is—a little more so, and twice as much of it, and more, and meaner, too."

A prosperous protracted meeting was held at Gaston, Washington county, last week, by the Methodist Church. A society of 11 members was organized by Rev. J. W. Miller.

The Indians claim the right to hunt in the coast range of mountains at all seasons of the year under the amendment to the game law, which allows a man to kill game on his own premises whenever he likes.

A charivari party in Yamhill county came out second best in a contest with the "old man," the other night, when he denied that they had any right to deface his residence by raking the paint off with sticks. He clubbed the ringleader with a shotgun.

The Benton County Bible Society, at its annual meeting in Corvallis last week, elected officers as follows: President, Rev. J. W. York; Vice President, Rev. J. G. Downing; Secretary, Rev. Jos. Emery; Treasurer and Depositary, Rev. J. A. Hanna; Executive Committee, R. Y. McCune, Rev. G. W. Day, J. E. Peterson, Rev. Jos. Emery and A. Newton.

A little daughter of J. W. Shelton, of McMinnville, was badly scalded a few days ago by falling into a kettle of hot water. The mother had just taken the kettle from the stove, and placed it upon the floor, and it being behind the child she backed up and fell down into the boiling water, scalding her so badly that it was feared she could not live at last accounts.

The Independent gives the following as the statistics of Washington county: No. acres of land, 210,570, value, $1,367,906; No. horses, 2,240, value, $118,705; cattle, 5,406, value, $78,510; sheep 8,598; value, $321,365; hogs, 3,539, value, $8,250; personal property, $812,535; gross valuation, $2,324,520. Indebtedness within the State, $417,050; exemption, $253,770; net valuation, $1,653,700.

Last Monday, the citizens of Brownsville held their first election under the new charter granted them by the late Legislature. Thirty-four votes were cast for the charter and eight against—making a total of 42 votes polled. The city officers are as follows: Mayor, J. M. Moyer; Recorder, Peter B. Hume; Marshal, John Long; Treasurer, O. P. Coshow; Aldermen, McLoud, Bilyeu, Thompson and Caroline. This election passed off remarkably quiet, no riots or barricading of streets being reported in any of the wards.

The Washington County Agricultural Society has ordered all persons having buildings on the Society's ground to remove them within sixty days from the 31st of October, 1874. The order further provides that Mr. Luelling may purchase all buildings, giving warrants on the Society therefor. The Directors of the Society will meet at Hillsboro on the 21st day of November, 1874, at 1 o'clock P. M., at the Court House. The object of this meeting is to give all persons an opportunity to present their grievances to the Board that they may be rectified.

The Board of Directors of the Washington County Agricultural Society met at the Court House, in Hillsboro, on the 31st of October, and were called to order by the President, A. Luelling. Present—R. Imbrie, W. G. Scoggin, J. Freeman, Ben Cornelius, and W. R. Jackson. Mr. Scoggin reported G. M. Raymond too unwell to be present. On motion, W. G. Scoggin was appointed to act as Secretary pro tem. The Treasurer reported that the total receipts of the Fair for 1874 were $3,408 75. Total expenditures were $2,900; leaving a balance on hand of $568 75. The report was referred, and on motion the sum of $550 was paid to Ben Cornelius on the indebtedness of the Society.

A team belonging to George Landing, indulged in a lively runaway at McMinnville last week. The runaway team started from in front of the college. Here one of the horses became unruly and scared and plunged about until he got out of his place, and one of his traces became unhitched, when the driver went to the heads of his team and took them by the bits. The horses ran and Mr. Landing held to them until he was knocked down and trampled upon by the now furious steeds, and run over by the wagon. He was picked up more dead than alive and taken to the physician's office, where his wounds were dressed and such treatment rendered as he needed. One of his ears was almost severed from his head and he was bruised from head to foot, but fortunately no bones were broken, and after getting his ear sewed on, he went home and seems to be getting along nicely.

A SAW-FISH.—The Galveston News thus describes a fish caught at that place a few days ago: "He was the kind known as of saw-fish, and was 18 feet in length. He carried his saw at the end of his nose; it is 4 feet long, and set with teeth an inch and a half in length, and sharp as needles. He came ashore at the request of a party of fisherman, of whom Mr. James Hussey is chief, who happened to be dragging their nets on the Gulf shore, between the Half-Way House and Gulf Veranda. These monsters, which abound in the waters of the Gulf, only come close in shore when the water is smooth, otherwise they would be dangerous neighbors. They swim with the rapidity of sharks, and would cut a man's leg off of or half way through his body at a single dash."

FUTURE POLITICS OF THE TRIBUNE.—Chicago, October 30.—Joseph Medill, one of the founders and a large stockholder in the Chicago Tribune, has bought of Horace White, for several years past chief editor, and Alfred Cowles, business manager, a controlling interest in the paper, and will on the 9th of November next assume full editorial control, placing the paper back to the position it occupied during his former management as an independent Republican journal. White retains as an investment a minor portion of his stock, but severs connection otherwise with the paper, and will go to Europe to recuperate. Cowles retains a considerable quantity of stock, and will continue as business manager.

SALARIES OF POSTMASTERS.—Chicago, October 30.—A Washington special says the attention of the Postmaster-General has been called to the fact that the salaries of Postmasters in the large towns and cities are entirely out of proportion to the work performed—a comparative statement of salaries at many prominent points being proposed for the purpose of exhibiting the facts in the case, and it is the intention of the Postmaster-General to make such recommendation with regard to salaries as the actual duties performed in each case seem to call for.

KULLMAN'S SENTENCE.

BERLIN, October 30.—The trial of Kullman was concluded this afternoon. The case has attracted more than usual interest, and the Court room was densely crowded. The audience was composed of parties from all over Germany, many of them being members of Ultramontane societies, who heard the proceedings with keen interest. No demonstrations were made in the Court room, the Ultramontanists being overawed by the large force of police present to preserve order. A company of militia was also in Wurzburg to act in the event of an attempt at rescuing the prisoner.

Kullman declined the aid of the counsel offered by the Government and defended himself. In his address to the Court he related his history and the causes that had impelled him to seek the life of Bismarck. He stated that his apprenticeship in early life had corrupted him and led him into the paths of vice. He had borne the taunts of Protestant apprentices associated with him until he could bear them no longer, and he had then sought for the means of revenge upon the Protestants; and upon the imprisonment of the Archbishop of Posen for his opposition to the German ecclesiastical laws the assassination of some prominent Protestant suggested itself, and he finally fixed upon Bismarck as his victim.

The stillness of death prevailed during the prisoner's speech. The Court, in addressing the prisoner, previous to passing sentence, referred to the enormity of his crime, which but for the interposition of Divine Providence might have brought him to the scaffold. Kullman was then sentenced to fourteen years imprisonment, at the expiration of which he is to be for ten years deprived of all civil rights and to be under the strict surveillance of the police. The prisoner was very calm and collected while standing to receive his sentence. He refused to appeal from the verdict of the Court.

THAT NAUGHTY MAN, TILDEN.—A Georgia editor hopes that Tilden will be elected in New York, though he never fancied him much. "He is a thin, attenuated old gentleman, wears a stock and looks like a dancing master of the olden days, reminding us of the old man who can 'nimbly caper in a lady's chamber to the lascivious pleasings of a lute.' Party obligations must rest heavily on an editor who can thus give his support to a thin old man who, having no other article of wearing apparel worth mentioning than a stock, can behave himself in this style in a lady's chamber. Tilden shall clothe his thin attenuateness and behave himself, else he shall not have our vote.—Chicago Times.

KING KALAKAUA'S SUITE.—Washington, October 30.—The following persons are announced as the party who will accompany the King of the Hawaiian Islands on his visit to United States and Europe: Elisha H. Allen, Chief Justice and Minister to the United States; Governor John O. Dominis, the King's brother-in-law, Chief of Staff and Military Governor of the Island of Oahu; His Excellency M. Kapena, Governor of the Island of Maui; H. Carpenter, one of the principal merchants of Honolulu and a member of the Privy Council, together with the King's valets or body servants. They will be accompanied by Mr. Pierce, the United States Minister.

POLITICAL PROPHESYING

The St Paul Press of October 16th had an editorial article on the "Imminent National Crisis" which may be referred to as a fair sample of the extent to which the minds of the shrewdest political prognosticators were misinformed at least uninformed, as to the situation before the elections. The Press after speaking of the [illegible] of the elections in Ohio and Indiana, said

> If we should lose in like proportion elsewhere, we shall lose our majority in the House of Representatives and then lift up your heads ye everlasting gates and let in the reign of anarchy and plunder

But this was intended merely as a general statement of the result that might be expected to follow an event which it was possible to imagine, but of whose occurrence there was no danger The alarming hypothesis must be followed speedily by words of consolation, and the Press proceeded to declare that the supposed result of the elections was entirely out of the question, because New York and Pennsylvania, and, in fact, all the Republican States, were manifestly safe for unusually large Republican majorities New York, it was said, was sure of a splendid victory for the Republicans and Pennsylvania "would not be behind" This was quite as intelligent an opinion of the result as anybody could have formed at that time.

MEXICO

It is not a third, but a second, term that [illegible] in Mexico President Lerdo is understood to desire re election, and his friends say he is the choice of the people—of course they would say—but there is a strong opposition party. The founders of the opposition, as reported, appear rather slight to an American, but the foundations are enough in Mexico. General Mejia, Minister of War in Lerdo's Cabinet, is not a favorite of the people. He is an old fashioned Mexican [illegible] with old fashioned ways of doing things and the radical progresistas want things done according to the new fashion, and the newer the better They demanded the removal of Mejia some time since, and came well nigh securing it, but the veteran General met them with a [illegible] movement, and not only retained his budget, but became much more influential in the Government than he had before And now it is declared that Mejia's triumph is the downfall of Lerdo [illegible]. A propaganda has been fully organized and the work of creating public sentiment against the Administration is to be pushed forward with suitable zeal and energy, while the more skillful politicians are to busy themselves with wire-pulling and pipe-laying preparatory to the final conflict It is pretty safe to predict that the upshot of it all will be an insurrection and internal war, no matter what party shall win. That is the natural end of a political contest in Mexico

A FIGHT AMONG THE COOPERS.

A contest is going on between the journeymen coopers of New York and their employers The journeymen demand the right to dictate the maximum number of apprentices to be employed in the works [illegible] that no hoops shall be used except those made by the men of the Journeymen's Union, insist on having eight [illegible] considered a day's work, keeping the wages up to $4, and that a man who [illegible] a day's work shall have the right to finish it. The journeymen and the [illegible] appear to be about equally stubborn There is consequently a strike, but not of the usual kind The employers instead of the employed took the aggressive. When the demand of the Union [illegible] the boss coopers objected to it very strenuously The journeymen [illegible] they should have to insist upon those terms. But the bosses instead of yielding to the demand, or quietly awaiting a strike, [illegible] the journeymen that their services were no longer wanted The employers claim that they have been long [illegible] of their men, and say they are [illegible] of it. They have consequently resolved to have their work done by non [illegible] men, if enough such can be had They are advertising for such and expect to be supplied from the country Meanwhile, meetings have been held by representatives of both interests, for the purpose of trying to adjust the matter, but without [illegible] The discussion at these [illegible] has tended rather to widen the breach than bring about an accommodation

THE INTERNATIONAL REVIEW.—The closing [illegible] of volume I of the International Review (A S Barnes & Co, New York) is at hand. The high promises of the first number of this publication were fully sustained [illegible] the volume The present number contains papers upon "International Communication by [illegible]" by Philip G. Hammerton, "The Architects of the American Capitol," by James Q Howard, "The Iron Resources of the United States" by Prof J S Newberry "Study of the Greek and Latin [illegible]" by [illegible] Abbott, D. D, "Divorce," by Hon N H Davis, "The Domestic Condition of the United States" by Hon Samuel [illegible], Book Notices etc

J N Dolph has commenced an action against W H Watkinds for libel laying his damages at $10 000 Summons was served on Friday last in this city The alleged libel is the statement of Watkinds in his answer to the report of the Penitentiary investigating committee, charging that the firm of Mitchell & Dolph received money for putting a certain [illegible] through the State Senate in 1872 while Dolph was a member of that body So the truth of the matter is likely to be brought out at last Both parties declare themselves [illegible] for the fray

A Minnesota paper says a great many farmers in Bridgewater county have been obliged to dispose of their flocks of sheep, the wolves being so plentiful that sheep-raising can not be carried on successfully Sheep husbandry [illegible] and promising industry in that section till this unaccountable increase of wolves

Did anybody in Oregon ever hear of that lawsuit about a goose, through which Hipple, according to his statement to the Derrick reporter published this morning, reached such a gorgeous standing at the bar in Oregon? The first time any living man ever heard of that celebrated lawsuit is just now

OUR JOHN HIPPLE ADVERTISES HIMSELF

We had nearly forgotten the individual who answers to an alias, in the roll call of the United States Senate. More important matters had so far engrossed the public attention and called for journalistic notice, as almost to obliterate the image of John whose surname is Hipple and whose assumed name is Mitchell from the memory But John Hiram—that is another name sometimes assumed when it is deemed necessary to conceal his identity—John Hiram is an irrepressible customer He does not permit himself to be lost sight of long at a time. He acts upon the maxim that a bad eminence is preferable to no eminence at all, and keeps himself before the public gaze, even if to do so requires the revival of the scandals which have turned his fame to infamy Let it not however be inferred from these remarks that John Hiram himself ever directly asks to have the "bad" truth of his career repeated for public entertainment A person who has received a finished education at Witherspoon Institute could never be such a spooney as that Our John Hiram—Oregonians all love to speak of him under that endearing possessive our John Hiram—simply tells his own side and, by the persuasive appeal of those Raphael eyes of his or in default of success by that means, then by the "chink of golden argument" induces the publication of the story But John always overdoes the thing so much that the people who know the truth are not likely to let his presentation of the case go uncontradicted. In other words John lies so like the Old Harry that as his fabrications are going the rounds of the press even disinterested persons feel called upon to challenge, simply as a matter of principle Below is a specimen, which several papers in the East have taken it on themselves to correct in such terms as would be rather uncomfortable to a person whose skin was less thick than that of the Oregon pachyderm He got himself interviewed by the Oil City Derrick, and this tissue of express and implied falsehoods unrelieved by a single truthful statement, is the result Of course it is a pretty [illegible] biography of John from his boyhood, for John always weaves that gushing period into his defenses of himself against himself He does not mention the school marm Miss Maria J Brinker, with whom he ran away from Butler when he went to California. He omits the little irregularities in money transactions which he left behind, irregularities called embezzlement by the statutes He does not call to mind the trial in which he figured as prisoner at the bar charged with beating and kicking his wife while she was in that condition which above all others should have commanded his tenderest care. He conveniently forgets the fact of his marrying his present wife over seven years before the divorce of his former one, and raising up a family of unfortunate children by the last adulterous relation. And he states that his delinquencies were known in Oregon some time before his election as Senator and were used to defeat him, but without effect so thoroughly had his honorable life brought about a condonation of his youthful indiscretions whereas, in fact not a word of the truth came to light till nearly a year after his election But here is the story he gives to the Derrick in which our readers, knowing the facts, will recognize falsehoods entirely too numerous for us to specify

> The father of Mr Mitchell settled four miles from Butler when his son was a mere boy whose cleverness betokened a brilliant future With [illegible] brothers and sisters John was sent to the district school where he received the rudiments of his education. He subsequently attended Witherspoon Institute afterwards read law in Colonel Thompson's office and in due time began to practice his profession Talented, enterprising and ambitious his prospects of legal promotion looked bright and promising, and his admiring friends regarded him as one destined to make his mark in the profession of his choice In the meantime a compulsory marriage with a young woman greatly his inferior in education and ability produced such results as might have been expected from the unsuitable match The ill starred pair struggled along a couple of years their unhappiness constantly increasing, till in despair, the wretched husband suddenly left his wife and with his infant daughter took passage for California, reaching San Francisco in May of 1860 How far this step was justifiable may be a matter of dispute, but it is proper to state that most of those best acquainted with the case only wonder the desertion was so long postponed Determined to sever the last link connecting him with his former haunts, he very unwisely changed his name from John Mitchell Hipple to John Hipple Mitchell, which gave rise to vast trouble upon his application for a seat in the Senate of the United States, though since legalized by the proper authority in Oregon
> The young attorney opened an office at San Luis Obispo, a small town not far from the coast, with a strong Mexican element where his ignorance of the Spanish language rendered it difficult to succeed Accordingly he soon removed to Oregon, establishing himself in Portland To such pecuniary straits was he reduced as not to be able even to furnish an office without forming a sort of partnership with a justice scarcely less needy As may be imagined his patronage was light for some time, although Fortune at length smiled propitiously upon the ardent follower of Blackstone One of his first cases involved a suit brought by a rough country fellow against a wealthy firm for the loss of a flock of geese The owner engaged Mitchell to prosecute a claim for damages and proceedings were instituted before the justice already mentioned who readily allowed the $20 demanded by the plaintiff for his feathered bipeds The case was appealed, tried at the County Court and the decision of the justice sustained The case was again appealed until it actually went in to the Supreme Court, with the usual result Mr Mitchell conducted it through all these stages in behalf of his original client Mr Williams, now Attorney General of the United States appearing on the other side He managed it with such acumen as to establish a high reputation for legal skill and from this insignificant beginning may be properly dated the extraordinary advancement of the lawyer thus pre eminently sound on the goose.
>
> Among the magnates of the far West one of the most distinguished is Ben Holladay the great railroad king Taking a great fancy to Mr Mitchell his influence quickly procured him the appointment of solicitor to an important railway at the liberal salary of $10,000 a year in gold Political honors speedily followed this decided success, and six years ago he came within two votes of carrying the election for Senator to which he recently attained Lucky speculations and shrewd investments also enriched the prosperous politician in like generous proportions until he ranked as a solid millionaire, and took his place with the "solid men" of his adopted territory
>
> The public generally well remember the commotion excited over a twelvemonth ago by his selection to represent the Oregonians at Washington During the heated preliminary canvass the story of his exit from Butler reached the district and was industriously circulated by his enemies in hopes of ensuring his defeat. This rival for the coveted position was a gentleman named Colbert who purchased a paper for $40 000, and spared neither pains nor expense to unearth whatever might prove damaging to his competitor The Pittsburgh Leader always a species of guerrilla sheet was particularly active in furthering this object and not unfrequently has surprise been expressed at its astonishing zeal in this matter The explanation is simple and significant. Colbert was a brother-in-law of one of the proprietors which accounts for the milk in the Leader's cocoa nut Nepotism had much to do with its rampageous earnestness, which extended to the length of sending a reporter to Butler to rake up the old sores of former times, and another to Franklin to visit the divorced wife of the coming Senator and drag from the poor woman disclosures it was easy to paint in terrible colors and send broadcast through the columns of the Pennsylvania organ of Brother in law Colbert The animus of the erratic Leader towards Butler county has long been well known dating back as it does from the time when a leading owner of the concern was removed from a lucrative sinecure in the Department of Internal Revenue through the exertions of Hon Ebenezer McJunkin then member of Congress for the Butler district Great prescience is not required to understand the violent attacks of the paper in view of [illegible] substantial reasons for its intense hostility, which, however equally with the fierce ebullitions of kindred journals in Oregon failed to produce the designed effect of preventing Mr Mitchell's election to the Senate by a handsome majority In this connection it may be stated that having been divorced from his first wife he married a lady of Portland who accompanied him on his visit to Butler winning hosts of friends by her attractive deportment and engaging manners The conduct of the discarded wife soon proved that her husband had but too good cause for complaint She came to Franklin some years since was again married last season and at present resides in or near Oil City
> The efforts to prevent the admission of Mr Mitchell to the Senate because of his change of name are too familiar to need reiteration They failed to accomplish this result and the Senator now holds his position without fear of any future demonstration in this direction In conversation with the Derrick reporter he indicated his intention to return to Washington in a few weeks there to remain during the next session of Congress That he will make a respectable appearance in the highest legislative body of the nation his legal attainments political experience natural talents debating powers and unbounded energy render prosperity certain

Double entry single entry and no entry at all appear to be various systems of book keeping adopted by the late County Clerk That is the substance of the report of the committee appointed by the County Court to examine the books and accounts of the office The books were in such disorder at the end of the last term, that the only thing to be done was to rub out and begin anew which the Court has ordered to be done in accordance with the report of the committee.

It is stated ex Governor Pease will not accept the position of Collector of the port of Galveston Texas and that it will be tendered to Gen B G Shields Many years ago Gen Shields was a member of Congress from Alabama. Subsequently he represented the United States in one of the South American States For some years past he has been living a quiet and retired life in Texas

Sumner Whitney & Co of San Francisco have issued a new law book from the pen of A C Freeman, the author of "Freeman on Judgments" The new work is entitled "Cotenancy and Partition," and it treats of the various forms of joint ownerships in property, of the rights of co tenants and of the methods of severing co tenancy

ONE MORE UNFORTUNATE.—Once again are we called upon to announce an [illegible] who has found a watery grave [illegible] face of our beautiful river On [illegible] night about the hour of 12 o'clock [illegible] sailors belonging to the bark [illegible] overboard and was drowned. The unfortunate man was [illegible] It appears that Evans left the vessel during the early part of the evening in [illegible] with another sailor During their wanderings, both became considerably intoxicated [illegible] About 12 o'clock or a little past, both sailors returned to the [illegible] It was extremely dark, and in climbing from the dock to the vessel, Evans lost his footing and fell overboard between the bark and wharf. He was almost helpless from intoxication, and could not assist him [illegible] about the same [illegible] and [illegible] unable to succor his companion In falling, it is thought that Evans struck his head against a pile, or piece of timber [illegible] on the water as he uttered no cry for help. [illegible] never spoke a word and [illegible] little or no effort to save himself After some [illegible] had elapsed the [illegible] crew was aroused but the poor fellow had [illegible] probably, before help could be extended [illegible] was made for the body all day [illegible] day, but without avail Where Evans fell overboard, the water is not to exceed 12 feet in [illegible] only a few yards from the [illegible] the body has floated [illegible] and the clothing caught to some object, or else it has [illegible] the night it drifted out into the [illegible] [illegible] was a common [illegible] about 27 years unmarried an [illegible] and a native of Cardiff Efforts will be [illegible] to-day to recover the body

[illegible] fur, who has so faithfully and [illegible] the position of [illegible] and [illegible] of the Northwest Storage, Commission and [illegible] Company, has [illegible] as Manager and [illegible] At the last meeting of the [illegible] Mr Dufur tendered his [illegible] to take effect on the 5th of Nov [illegible] considerable hes[illegible] by that body He was induced to [illegible] until another capable and [illegible] selected to fill the important [illegible] and position Such a [illegible] to Mr Dufur has been appointed in the [illegible] of Mr. A. [illegible] Warner of Oregon City, who [illegible] the duties of Manager on [illegible] Warner we are [illegible] is a [illegible] and competent gentleman, and without doubt will conduct the affairs of the Company in a [illegible] able and satisfactory [illegible] has done. Mr Dufur, we [illegible] induced to resign the [illegible] entirely in consequence of the [illegible] devolving upon the incumbent Mr. Dufur found the labors of the position [illegible] and requiring more of his time than he felt justified in devoting to it. He will probably continue as President of the [illegible] Matlock will still [illegible] the Company in the capacity of [illegible] The present condition and [illegible] of the Northwest Storage, Commission and [illegible] Company are [illegible] This information will be [illegible] and gratification to all interested in the important enterprise

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE.—[illegible] our unpleasant duty to chronicle the [illegible] from the familiar walks of [illegible] one of the early pioneers of this [illegible] Turnbull departed this life at his [illegible] Vancouver on Thursday after [illegible] lingering illness of several [illegible] Few [illegible] better or more favorably [illegible] in this city or Vancouver, than Capt. Turnbull. For nearly ten years past he has been engaged in the steamboating business between Portland and Vancouver, and on the [illegible] Columbia river He [illegible] to this [illegible] in 1852 and settled in Portland In 1853 Captain Turnbull purchased an [illegible] in the [illegible] business with R. W. Davis and David [illegible] of this city After [illegible] years connected with the [illegible] Mr Turnbull disposed of his interest and retired from the firm He remained [illegible] a number of years, and then removed to Vancouver where he resided up to the time of his death Captain Turnbull had been in feeble health for many months. His last illness, terminating in his death, [illegible] for four months A large circle of [illegible] and friends mourn the loss of one so loved and respected during life. [illegible] years and 9 months. Funeral [illegible] will be observed at [illegible] o'clock P M

NEW BRICK BUILDING.—Plans and specifications are being prepared by [illegible] & Gilbert for a large brick building [illegible] to be constructed next summer by Col. John McCraken, on the site of the old [illegible] Works destroyed last summer by fire. The [illegible] is to be of brick with iron front, [illegible] high Its dimensions are to be 100x100 feet. The first and second stories will each be divided into four large store rooms, 25x100 feet. The third story will be divided into two large halls each 50x100 feet. Through the center of each of these rooms, a row of [illegible] will extend to support the roof. Only the foundation for the building will be built this fall. Early next spring the work will be resumed and the structure pushed forward to an early completion M [illegible] McC[illegible] & Martin have the contract for laying the foundation and have already a number of [illegible] making the necessary excavation In a few days the stone masons will commence [illegible] On the river side the wall will be [illegible] high and about 4 feet thick, built of stone [illegible] in hydraulic cement. The [illegible] is to be constructed in a [illegible] manner and will, when finished, be a [illegible] addition to that portion of the city

BISHOP MORRIS AT WASHINGTON.—[illegible] the following in one of the daily [illegible] Washington City The nuptials of [illegible] Morrison and Miss Laura Wells will be solemnized on Thursday, the [illegible] 7 P M at Trinity Church. The ceremony will be performed by the Right Rev Bishop Morris of Oregon a relative of the [illegible] at the [illegible] now New York, will admit Miss Wells, formerly of Ithaca New York is a daughter of Colonel Ed S. Wells, of this city, and a granddaughter of the late Wm Hill Wells an [illegible] lawyer and United States Senator from Delaware for two terms and a niece of the late Alfred Wells elected a representative in Congress in 1858 from the Twenty-sixth District of New York. Mr Morrison is a son of the late Judge Roderick N Morrison, of California, and a nephew of Master C. V Morris, U S N, stationed for many years at the Washington navy yard."

FROM THE WENATCHEE.—A NEW KIND OF SHEEP.—Mr James M Moore, who has just come [illegible] from the [illegible] country, reports mining very dull in [illegible] He thinks there are good quartz lodes there, which will some time create a large business, but the placer mines he pronounces a failure. Mr Moore tells of a variety of mountain sheep inhabiting that region which it would be worth while to domesticate They are very large weighing sometimes as high as 300 or even 400 pounds, and have a heavy [illegible] of [illegible] wool He showed us a pair of socks said to have been made of the wool of these animals, the yarn having been spun by an Indian woman by rolling the thread with the hand This sample is of course, rather rough, but the staple appears to be quite equal to that of average wool of the markets. Mr Moore proposes to endeavor to have some of these animals captured and brought down here this winter

GRANGE MATTERS.—During the past few days the directors and stockholders of the Northwest Storage Commission and Warehouse Company have been in session at the Clarendon Hotel There was a large attendance, a majority of all the stock being represented. One of the principal subjects discussed at the meeting was the expediency of [illegible] the capital stock of the company so as to enlarge the business and augment its operations and general efficiency The Executive Committee of the State Grange has also been in session in this city with Daniel Clark as Master and Chairman presiding This meeting was held in connection with the Directors and stockholders of the above mentioned company. The object was for [illegible] consultation and advice in relation to promoting the interests of the Order throughout the State and devising as to the future course of the same A very harmonious and profitable meeting was held

CITY.

ONE MORE UNFORTUNATE—Once again are we called upon to announce another victim who has found a watery grave under the surface of our beautiful river On Thursday night about the hour of 12 o clock, one of the sailors belonging to the bark Harrington, fell overboard and was drowned The name of the unfortunate man was Lewelling Evans It appears that Evans left the vessel during the early part of the evening in company with another sailor During their wanderings both became considerably intoxicated especially Evans About 12 o clock, or a little past both sailors returned to the Harrington It was exceedingly dark, and in climbing from the dock to the vessel Evans lost his footing and fell overboard between the bark and wharf He was a most helpless from intoxication and could not assist himself His companion was in about the same condition and was of course unable to succor his companion In falling it is thought that Evans struck his head against a pile or piece of timber floating on the water as he uttered no cries for help—never spoke a word—and made little or no effort to save himself After some moments had elapsed, the vessel's crew was aroused but the poor fellow had perished miserably before help could be extended Search was made for the body all day yesterday, but without avail Where Evans fell overboard the water is not to exceed 12 feet in depth being only a few yards from the shore Probably the body has floated under the vessel and the clothing caught to some object or else during the night it drifted out into deep water Deceased was a common seaman aged about 27 years, unmarried an Englishman, and a native of Cardiff Efforts will be renewed today to recover the body

N. W S. AND W COMPANY —Mr A J Dufur who has so faithfully and efficiently filled the position of Manager and President of the Northwest Storage, Commission and Warehouse Company has tendered his resignation as Manager and retired on Thursday At the last meeting of the State Grange held at Salem Mr Dufur tendered his resignation to take effect on the 5th of November, which after some hesitation was accepted by that body He was induced to remain until another capable and enterprising person could be selected to fill the important and responsible position Such a successor to Mr Dufur has been appointed in the person of Mr Arthur Warner of Oregon City who entered upon the duties of Manager on Thursday Mr Warner we are assured, is a very reliable and competent gentleman, and without doubt will conduct the affairs of the Company in a profitable and satisfactory manner, as his predecessor has done Mr Dufur we understand was compelled to resign the managership of the Company in consequence of the arduous duties devolving upon the incumbent Mr Dufur found the labors of the position too great and requiring more of his time than he felt justified in devoting to it He will probably continue as President of the Company Mr [illegible] lock will still remain connected with the Company in the capacity of Assistant Manager, The present condition and prospects of the Northwest Storage, Commission and Warehouse Company are [illegible] ous and encouraging This information will be a source of pride and gratification to all interested in the important enterprise

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE.—Again it becomes our unpleasant duty to chronicle the departure from the familiar walks of men another one of the early pioneers of this State Capt James Turnbull departed this life at his home in Vancouver on Thursday afternoon, after a lingering illness of several months. Few men were better or more favorably known, both in this city or Vancouver than Capt Turnbull For nearly ten years past deceased has been engaged in the steamboating business between [illegible] and Vancouver and along the lower [illegible] river He came to this State in the year 1852, and settled in Portland In 1853 Turnbull purchased an interest in the business with H W Davis and David [illegible] of this city After remaining several [illegible] connected with the foundry in Portland Turnbull disposed of his interests and [illegible] from the firm He remained here for a [illegible] of years, and then removed to Vancouver where he resided up to the date of his death Captain Turnbull had been in precarious health for many months His last sickness, terminating in his death lasted for about four months. A large circle of relatives and friends mourn the loss of one so loved and respected during life Deceased was aged 63 years and 9 months Funeral obsequies will [illegible] at Vancouver to-morrow at 1 o clock P M

NEW BRICK BUILDING —Plans and specifications are being prepared by Messrs Krumbein [illegible] for a large brick building, which is to be erected next summer by Col John [illegible] on the site of the old Salt Works [illegible] last summer by fire The building will be of brick with iron front three stories high. Its dimensions are to be 100x100 feet The first and second stories will each be divided into four large store rooms, 25x100 feet The third story will be divided into two large rooms each 50x100 feet. Through the center of each of these rooms, a row of wooden columns will [illegible] to support the roof Only the foundation for the building will be built this fall [illegible] next spring the work will be resumed, and the structure pushed forward to an early [illegible] the Messrs. McCollough & Martin have the contract for laying the foundation There are already a number of men engaged in [illegible] the necessary excavation In a few days the stone masons will commence operations. On the river side the wall will be 23 feet high and about 4 feet thick built of stone laid in hydraulic cement. This proposed building [illegible] a very substantial manner and will, when finished, be a handsome addition to that portion of the city

BURNT MOUTH AT WASHINGTON —We find the following [illegible] of the daily journals of Washington City "The nuptials of D Cameron Hornoch and Miss Laura Wells will be [illegible] on the 25th instant at 7 P M at Trinity Church. The ceremony will be performed by the Right Rev Bishop [illegible] [illegible] of the bride, if his [illegible] [illegible] in session in New York will admit. Miss Wells formerly of Ithaca, New York, is a daughter of Colonel Ed S Wells of this city and a granddaughter of the late Wm Hill Wells an eminent lawyer and United States [illegible] from Delaware for two terms, and a niece of the late Alfred Wells elected a representative in Congress in 1858 from the S [illegible]-sixth District of New York Mr Hornoch is a son of the late Judge Roderick N Hornoch of California and a nephew of Mr C V Morris U S N stationed for many years at the Washington navy yard."

[illegible] —A NEW KIND OF [illegible]—Mr James M Moore who has just [illegible] the Wenatchie country reports [illegible] dull in that region He [illegible] are good quartz lodes there [illegible] will some time create a large business [illegible] the placer mines he pronounces a failure [illegible] of a variety of mountain sheep inhabiting that region which it would [illegible] to domesticate. CHINESE THIEF —Some time during Thursday night the store of Wm Beck & Son on Front street, was entered, and a small sum of money and sundry articles purloined The thief proved to be a Chinaman named Lee who it seems was formerly employed about the store by the proprietors During the early part of the evening the Chinaman managed to get through the store unobserved and secrete himself behind some boxes in the back yard Mr Beck suspecting nothing, closed up the store at the usual hour in the evening and went home Soon after his departure John stole forth from his hiding place and commenced operations He contrived by some means to hoist one of the back windows as they were protected by no iron shutters Effecting an entrance the Celestial proceeded to help himself First he went to the drawer and abstracted $30 in coin which the proprietor had neglected to place in the safe before leaving Next John took several knives a lock, bullet molds and a number of articles amounting in all to about $70 But after securing his booty John found he could not get away as the back yard was enclosed by a high fence which he was unable to scale so he was compelled to remain there all night When the porter opened the store yesterday morning at 7 o clock the fellow coolly walked through the room out at the front door and made his escape Officer McCoy was notified of the theft and started on the track He soon overhauled Lee while that worthy was partaking of his breakfast Mac tackled him but he stoutly denied everything to the last By discovering where the Chinaman slept the officer proceeded to search the premises Secreted in an old carpet bag McCoy discovered the money and all the missing articles Lee was examined in Police Court yesterday morning and bound over to await the action of the grand jury Being unable to furnish bonds, he was committed to the county jail

SHOCKING RUMOR —Yesterday various rumors were afloat about an affray which purported to have taken place a few days since between a Captain and sailor on board one of the vessels now in the river Substantially, the report was to the effect that while the vessel in question was off the Columbia river bar an altercation transpired between the Master and one of the sailors The affair resulted in the Captain shooting and instantly killing the seaman After the tragical event—so says Madame [illegible]—the Captain caused the body of the murdered seaman to be thrown overboard On hearing these shocking rumors, we proceeded to trace the matter up but after spending several hours in the fruitless search and making diligent and persistent inquiries about the [illegible] affray, we were unable to learn anything of a definite character All we could possibly gain was a shadowy rumor to the effect as stated above Even the name of the vessel or that of the Captain could not be obtained. So at length we arrived at the conclusion that the entire report was a myth For the sake of humanity and the credit of all represented to have been connected with the terrible affair we sincerely trust the rumors are fabrications

AMUSEMENTS.

A good audience was present last evening at Oro Fino Theater on the occasion of the first appearance of Mr Tony Ward the Dutch Comique and also Mr and Mrs Fulford, supported by a legitimate company The opening piece consisted of a [illegible] of Circumstances a sparkling dashing three act comedy from the pen of Mr Charles Wheatleigh This comedy was capitally rendered, and the very ludicrous situations often brought down the house In the comedy appeared Mr and Mrs Fulford the Misses Pixley Zimmers, Heath and Taylor and Messrs White and Crowell Following this came the interlude during which appeared Mrs Fulford and Miss Pixley in a duet which was so sweetly rendered as to win for the ladies several hearty encores Next came Mr Tony Ward in his Dutch specialties—a number of character songs The gentleman s make up was capital and his singing and Teutonic personations were very clever and won for him three encores Concluding the interlude Mrs Fulford favored the audience with a Chinese song in costume which was done capitally The lady was encored and sung a neat little ballad Colin [illegible] a ludicrous farce concluded the performance This afternoon a grand matinee performance will be given for the special accommodation of the ladies and children In the evening the last performance will be given when an attractive bill is to be presented

PAUSE WHILE YOU READ THIS The season for parties and balls has arrived and the cold dreary days and nights of winter will soon visit us Every young man old man and boy for that matter, likes to present a neat appearance when attending parties that theater or walking about the streets. They like, and wise desire to be well provided against the cold blasts of snow and rain What contributes more to the personal appearance and comfort of a gentleman or boy than a nice closely fitting suit of clothes, set off with a heavy warm overcoat? Why will any one be so foolish as to go without either when BECK & WALDMAN have everything in that line Beck & Waldman in laying in their immense fall and winter stock of Clothing, have exercised great care and selected with reference to the demands of trade They have purchased their goods low and are determined not to be undersold. Let the public note this fact.

The great Frenchman Allroche made special use of irony and sarcasm in all his writings but JOHN O NEIL & CO make specialties of selling the finest clothing underwear ready made and [illegible] at unparalleled low prices For a winter suit [illegible] theirs are of the best so get yourself dressed and be at rest This is not irony or sarcasm, but stubborn fact as everybody will find it who goes to their store Naked truth is good but people are [illegible] about in that way and [illegible] [illegible] and the [illegible] received by this firm are just what are wanted for the season

NEW ATTRACTIONS—Very few are acquainted with the fact that JOS KOHN opposite First National Bank has just opened a magnificent assortment of Clothing and Furnishing Goods [illegible] but admire the handsome fine goods, the beautiful Beaver [illegible] the entire line Cassimeres and other goods now displayed at his large and elegant store He as well as his clerks are accommodating and will [illegible] the tastes of all [illegible] chance to call [illegible] Mr Kohn can please you, that is morally certain Now is the time to purchase [illegible]

THE PLAINS—A PROPHECY.

Go ye and look upon that land,
That far vast land that few behold,
And none beholding understand—
That old, old land which men call new—
Go journey with the seasons through
Its wastes, and learn how limitless.
The solemn silence of that plain
Is, oh! so eloquent. The blue
And blended skies seem built for it,
And all else seems a yesterday;
An idle tale badly told.
Its story is of God alone,
For man has lived and gone away
And left but little heaps of stone.
Lo! here you learn how more than fit
And dignified in silence when
You hear the petty jeers of men.
Its awful solitudes remain
Thenceforth for aye a part of you,
And you have learned your littleness.

Some silent red men cross your track;
Some sun-tanned trappers come and go;
Some rolling seas of buffalo
Break thunder-like and far away
Against the foot hills, breaking back
Like breakers of some troubled bay;
Some white-tailed antelope blown by
So airy like; some foxes shy
And shadow-like move to and fro
Like weavers' shuttles as you pass;
And now and then from out the grass
You hear some lone bird cluck and call
A sharp, keen call for her lost brood,
That only makes the solitude
Seem deeper still, and that is all.

That wide domain of mysteries
And signs that men misunderstand;
A land of space and dreams; a land
Of sea-salt lakes and dried-up seas;
A land of caves and caravans
And lonely wells and pools; a land
That hath its purposes and plans,
That seem so like dead Palestine,
Save that its wastes have no confine
Till pushed against the level skies;
A land from out whose depths shall rise
The new-time prophets; the domain
From out whose awful depths shall come,
All clad in skins, with dusty feet,
A man fresh from his Maker's hand,
A singer singing oversweet,
A charmer charming very wise;
And then all men shall not be dumb,
Nay, not be dumb, for he shall say,
"Take heed, for I prepare the way
For weary feet," and from this land
The Christ shall come when next the race
Of man shall look upon his face.

—Joaquin Miller in Harper's for [illegible]

A MIRACULOUS CURE.

As we steamed out of sight of the landing I watched Ralph narrowly to see if the familiar landmarks unmanned him or brought back the old irremediable trouble. I was glad to find that he wore the usual air of coldness and reticence that seemed to have quite taken the place of the old recklessness and impulse. His eyes were certainly fixed with unusual interest upon the sloping shores of the peninsula; and when a little fishing boat dropped her sail in one of the snug little coves near by, and a boatman stepping out disclosed the form of a woman and that of a little child clinging to her garments, Ralph turned away, a frown contracted his forehead, and he put his hand to his head as if to arrest a sharp remembrance there. But he was himself again presently, and began to contrast our glorious harbor with that of Naples. He was reminded of an amusing incident that occurred during our sojourn there, and his low, somewhat musical laugh fell upon the evening air. I don't know what force impelled me to turn my head and look at a woman standing at the furthest end of the deck. She was leaning against one of the pillars of the boat, the folds of her dress blown about it by the sea-wind, and her long, slender ungloved fingers resting carelessly upon the shoulders of a child by her side.

Her face was pale, even paler than of old. She appeared not to see me; her great luminous eyes seemed conscious of but the one object; but they fell upon Ralph with a gaze [illegible] enough to lift him from that campstool and draw him to her side.

With an involuntary shudder I shifted my place to one that made a barrier between them; but the power of her glance was potent enough to render him already uneasy. The light gradually faded from his eyes; his laughter died away; a melancholy settled on his face like that of the darkness on the receding shore.

"Come, Ralph," I said, "let's go below a bit, and have a lounge in the cabin; the evening air is chill."

"I believe it must be," he replied, "for I feel a sort of [illegible] sensation about me. Pray Heaven it isn't a chill! It would be wonderful—now wouldn't it, Harry?—if, after escaping the plague in Syria and the cholera in Russia, I should fall a victim to an America specialty, fever and ague."

"The best thing in the world for that," I said, warily keeping my position in front of him, "is a good dose of brandy and pepper. Let's go below and get it."

"I believe you'll got a touch of it too," he said, as we reached the stairs. "You've either turned a palish-green since I last looked at you, or it's the reflection of a dismal fancy."

Once reaching the comfortable region below the deck, the glow from the furnace shedding a sort of heat over the place, and the warm coloring in the furniture shutting out the cold light of the dying day up stairs, the strong [illegible] of brandy dispelling all fear of miasma, Ralph and I disposed of ourselves in a couple of arm chairs in the cabin, and resolved to remain there for the rest of the trip. He closed his eyes, and I thought he fell asleep; but, as for me, I never was more wide awake in my life.

What wonderful destiny brought that woman here at this moment? So many years had gone by without a word of communication between them, I began to hope that the gap never would be filled up, in this world at least.

In the other world there might something, perhaps, be done for two struggling, helpless souls; but here, hemmed in by circumstances unrelenting and even blameless, there was not even room for complaint.

It was not the fault of Ralph that he loved her. I don't believe he knew it himself till it was too late.

When we came down here long ago for that summer vacation, Heaven knows the place had charms enough to allure us. The broad waters of the bay were filled with game for our piscatorial fancy; the beautiful grouping of the clouds, the filtering of sunshine down through the leaves of woods, then untouched by the spoiler, the cloudless, heaven-bright days of a summer on the wave, were filled with food for our yearning for the beautiful.

If we had only never met Captain Jack!

Yet Captain Jack alone would have been an unadulterated element of joy. He was as clever, honest and genial a fellow as ever went in pursuit of oysters in these waters or those of Virginia. His fishing smack might well have been called a yacht, it was so handsome and complete. But being the soul of hospitality, and generous to a fault, he would insist upon our sharing his house and home, and seeing his wife Mary.

"If you call the scow handsome, I don't know what you'll say to her!" he chuckled, with infinite delight and pride.

We said nothing. How he got her, and where, was useless to ask; but had he plunged to the nether deep and fished up a mermaid, the most beautiful in that watery kingdom, had he mounted in a balloon to the stars and picked her off from one of those bits of fire, had he [illegible] the elements themselves for a prodigy of beauty and grace, he could not have gone beyond little May. Jack always called her Mary, but Ralph said she must be called May, because she was the embodiment of spring—of all that was fresh and bright and beautiful.

"I told you so!" said Captain Jack, winking and nodding with all his might.

The poor fellow seemed heartily to enjoy the homage paid to his wife and child—for there was a baby in the boatman's home, a yellow-haired, blue-eyed infant, some such a child as would delight the eye and heart of a painter.

Ralph, unconsciously enough, fell into a habit of lounging away the best part of his time in the house by the shore. At almost any hour in the day one might hear his pleasant voice reading bits of poetry to May, or carolling out snatches of song to the child. After a time all this changed; he grew moody and restless, a shadow fell on the young woman's face; and Captain Jack would insist upon my going off with him for hours together—fishing, oystering, up to the market, anywhere and everywhere, so that it was out in the open air or on the free glad waters of the bay.

Heaven knows I tried to stay at home with them, but Captain Jack would have me go. I was afraid to openly rebel, because—well, because I did not want to breed a devil in that dormant but powerful brain.

Thus I was tied, rendered helpless by the honesty and confidence of Jack, the innocence of May, and the ungovernable passion of Ralph. I became a victim to all these terrible agencies for evil, without being able to think of a plan for ameliorating them.

Suddenly, and without any previous warning, the knot in this tangle became unravelled. There was only one way out of this whirlpool, and Ralph proposed it himself.

He came to me one night, pale as a spectre, and said, in a hoarse whisper, that we must go at daybreak.

"Go?" I said. "Go where—to the city?"

"To the city—the devil—the farthest ends of the earth!" he cried, raising his hands in a spasm of agony.

I said no more, but packed our portmanteaus and got to bed, while poor Ralph walked the floor till morning.

With the first beam of sun came the cry of the baby in the adjoining room, and Ralph came over to the bed.

"If it hadn't been for the child—" he said, and paused.

"Well, thank God, then, for the child, Ralph," I said. "You'll say so yourself some day."

We were aboard a steamer the next week, bound for the Spanish Main. From thence we set sail for Egypt, and Heaven knows where the restless soul of my comrade had not drawn me.

At last he came to me himself.

"I'm homesick, Hal," he said. "Let's get back to America."

Useless to descant upon my rapture. I was the most disgusted and worn-out pilgrim that the world had ever seen.

There were no perils for us by land or sea till we reached the Kill von Kull. To get to the dear old mansion where abode the dearest old Quaker lady that ever was moved by the spirit to have such a son as Ralph, we had to take the river boat. And now the sun was setting over the familiar hills, the waters of the bay all aglow. I had reason to hope that in an hour more we would be safe.

But just then Ralph started to his feet. I had hoped that he was asleep; but there was a slumbering light in his eye that told of brooding and discontent. "Come," he said; "before the light dies quite away I must have one look at the shore."

"Ralph," I cried, "don't! I ask it of you!"

But he was half way up the stairs—not the stairs we had descended, the others, the ones that led to May and the child. It was destiny. They stood by the pillar in almost the same attitude as when I last saw them.

Ralph in mounting the last step tumbled forward.

"I beg pardon," he said; and then remained, with mouth agape and staring eyes, looking at the woman and the child.

She said not a word. It will be remembered that she had seen him before.

He staggered forward. "May," he said—"why, May!" then put his hand to his head in bewilderment. She still remained speechless; but her lips trembled, her hands left the shoulders of her child, and unconsciously extended themselves to him.

"Yes, yes," he cried, "oh, come to me!" He drew her to his side, devouring her with his eyes, while her own fell—fell, filled with tears under his burning gaze.

At that moment there was a cry of terror, a rush forward—too late. The child who had climbed unnoticed upon the traffrail of the boat, fell overboard into the darkening water.

May struggled from the arms of Ralph, and would have thrown herself after the child, but I caught her and held her tight, while Ralph plunged after the boy.

Hundreds of people rushed to see; the train stopped on the bridge; a sort of paralysis fell upon all, except one little fishing boat; that one, impelled by powerful strokes, went after the swimmer and the child.

Once, when the little head—oh! how little it looked upon the big surging wave!—went under, the hands of the boatman seemed stiff with terror; a breathless second of despair followed; but Ralph was famous at swimming, and now his soul was in it. On he went, cheered by the multitude. Now the little head was seen again, the long curls of yellow hair drifting upon the cold green wave. The tide swept the light weight of the child to the bridge; and just as it was sinking again Ralph grasped the little waif, and went under with it himself. Fainting and exhausted, battling, all clothed as he was, with the choking waves, he gave way at last, and a huge groan burst from the people. But the boatman was now close at hand, and dropping his oars, sprang into gulf or blackness that seemed ready to devour them all.

But I saw the boatman's face as it went down, and took heart of grace. I wasn't a bit surprised when he came up with them both, and floated them with one arm to the boat, while with the other he cleared the waters that seemed not to hinder, even to aid, their old comrade.

As the little boat with its dripping cargo came straight to our steamer, some of the women sobbed and others laughed with hysteric joy, while many a strong man could scarcely keep back the tears. One emotional fellow near by proposed as a vent to his feelings that a purse should be raised for the boatman.

"If it hadn't been for him, the father and child would both have gone under," he said, carrying his hat around.

When they came to me for a contribution, I refused. In the first place, the way to my pocket was obstructed by the fainting form of May, and, besides, it was ridiculous.

"You'd better give the money back again, now that you feel calmer," I said to the emotional chap. "It don't look well to pay a man for saving his own child. Besides he don't want any money; he's rich."

"But we mean the boatman."

"So do I."

"Who in thunder is the other fellow, then, that jumped off the boat here?"

"A passenger, that's all. Why, it's nothing. You or I or anybody would have done the same thing if we'd thought of it quick enough."

"Hum!" was the skeptical remark of this chap, walking off with a batful of money.

Half an hour afterward the little lad was cuddled close to his mother's heart; Ralph was lying back among the cushions in the cabin; Captain Jack was close at hand, bursting all the buttons off an overcoat that the emotional fellow had insisted upon his accepting as a mark of his esteem, and looking at May and the child with all his honest soul in his eyes.

"Gracious God!" he said, going over to Ralph, "suppose you hadn't been aboard!"

"Suppose we look above for a solution to these things?" I said.

We slept that night in our old quarters at Captain Jack's house on the shore. At sunrise the little chap was at his old trick again, and cried out in his sleep from the adjoining room. Ralph grasped my arm. "Thank God," he said—"thank God for the child!"

"I told you so three years ago," I rejoined.

"I am cured now, Hal," said Ralph, for once and all."

"You ought to be, Ralph; it took a miracle to do it."

Latest Liverpool advices denote a quiet market. Pacific coast wheat ranged from 9s 10d@10s 4d for average, and 10s 4d @10s 10d for club, per cental. The London market is quoted at 41s 6d per quarter for average quality just shipped, and 49s per quarter for average nearly due at Queenstown.

Notwithstanding the continued drafts upon the surplus capital in the market by the rapid grain movement, there is no serious embarrassment yet felt, as far as we can learn, though as a matter of caution the banks are scrutinizing paper which is offered for negotiation, very closely. The apprehension of the present large demand by financiers here, some months ago, induced them to provide well against it, and hence while the condition of affairs is one of a good deal of closeness, it is regarded as one of safety, and with no further pressure by outside circumstances together with the ordinary additions to the available funds of the market, the season is likely to be passed without the reappearance of the state of stringency, which oppressed nearly all branches of trade last year.

A late Frankfort paper gives the terms of settlement made by Mr. Holladay with the creditors of the Oregon and California Railroad Company. The bonds held by these creditors bear 7 per cent. interest; and it is said the road earns 2½ per cent., which it is agreed to pay over to the bondholders annually for five years. For the next three years 3½ per cent per annum will be paid Mr. Holladay to make good any deficit out of his own pocket to the extent of $50,000. After the eight years the creditors will get whatever the roads earns up to the 7 per cent called for by the bonds, and will receive scrip for the arrearage interest. They will have the right to appoint managers to represent their interest in the road conjointly with Mr. Holladay. The road will proceed to sell the lands belonging to it and apply the proceeds to the redemption of the bonds. These lands include those which had been sold by the railroad to the European and Oregon Land Company, and which have been reconveyed to the railroad on payment of the small expenses that have been incurred. This appears to be a better solution than was anticipated of a matter that for a time has clouded the credit of our coast.

Granger Wheat Shipments.

The Rural Press, the organ of the Grangers in California, in speaking of the arrangements made by the Executive Committee of the State Grange to step in and take the business of shipping wheat in place of the suspended firm of Morgan's Sons, says:

The wheat market is now in such a state that we think every farmer who has wheat on hand should give it his immediate and full attention. Freights are now £3 and less to Liverpool. [They are now down to £2 7s 6d.] We have not for many years had so low rates, nor may expect soon to have again while our granaries are so well filled. Nearly all reports agree that wheat will not go lower this year in Europe. With almost a certainty that prices will not be less, we have all the chances that they will advance before our cargoes can reach European docks. It does seem to us that now is the time for all farmers to send forward their wheat, and continue to send it so long as low freights can be had.

We do not see where the chances are to lose, if the grain be shipped through the agency of the State Grange. The Executive Committee have taken the business under their own charge. They will be responsible from this on.

Ship your grain now. Draw your advance of $20 or upwards per ton, and you will be sure of getting all that it is worth in final settlement. You will be sure besides that you are not supporting men who are figuring to get you in the corner.

Do not let the fleet of vessels now in our harbor go out to all parts of the world, grumbling that they were turned away empty when they offered low freights and our granaries were full. It seems to us as if now was the time to say to wheat holders, "live, let live, help live." To Patrons who have wheat they will sell or ship, we would say make known your intentions to the Executive Committee at once, and they can the better meet your interests. Let all farmers act for the good of one another.

Shippers will realize the benefit of any advance in prices which occurs before arrival. As our wheat is located so much further from the Liverpool market it has to be shipped sooner than that from the Eastern States, or other grain-growing sections of the world, in order to be benefited as fully by a rise in Europe.

Freights.

The extreme low freights ruling on this coast for grain vessels is one upon which, for some reasons this country is to be congratulated, as with a scarcity of tonnage and consequent high rates, combined with the depressed condition of the European markets, the result would be very disastrous to shippers and producers. All advices from San Francisco during the past week, agree in representing tonnage there as ruling at £2 10s and under, for a direct port, and the disengaged vessels here are being chartered for the same destination at £3 5s and less, one receiving only £3 2s. The circumstances precipitating this decline, from the £5@£4 10s, which some ships got last year, though perhaps disastrous to some classes, will prove of advantage to others. There is one thing, however, which some farseeing persons predict, and it is that these low freights will seriously injure the chances for a fair supply of tonnage on our coast in after years; but we cannot see that it would necessarily have this effect. The law of supply and demand rules on the ocean as well as on the land, and ships are governed by it as well as wheat markets everywhere and in all time, and if the demand for our grain in Europe is better next year than this, it can afford to pay correspondingly higher freight and thus induce the ships to our port.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship Ajax sailed for San Francisco at 1 o'clock this afternoon, with a full freight list. She carried about 180 tons pig iron, a lot of lumber, produce, etc.

The British bark Harrington has been chartered for Europe, and to-day began to receive her cargo. She is being loaded by Henry Hewett & Co., and will have quick dispatch.

The Windermere is discharging ballast and will begin to take on cargo on Monday.

The British vessel Glenlyon, loaded by Hewett & Co., was towed down the river this afternoon with about 30,000 bushels of wheat on board. She will take on 8,000 bushels more at Astoria, and probably go to sea about Monday.

The schooner Oregonian, with a cargo of produce and lumber for the San Francisco market, has gone down the river.

The Garibaldi, for Hongkong, will be ready to sail early next week.

Eighteen grain laden vessels have left this port this season so far, against eleven up to a corresponding date in 1873, and four in 1872.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions, which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words, among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues—Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation, or maintained it so long as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvelous cures that have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, than can be made by medical skill. Indeed the Cherry Pectoral has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well founded if the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY & COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray, and either of them incline it to shed prematurely.

Ayer's Hair Vigor, by long and extensive use has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately; often renews the growth, and always surely restores its color, when faded or gray. It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity, and preserves both the hair and its beauty. Thus brashy, weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened; lost hair regrows with lively expression; falling hair is checked and established; thin hair thickens; and faded or gray hair resume their original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff, heals all humors, and keeps the scalp cool, clean and soft—under which conditions, diseases of the scalp are impossible.

As a dressing for ladies' hair, the Vigor is praised for its grateful and agreeable perfume, and valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.
